

For the last 15 years, RevenueTEK has been building an “MRI scanner” for corporate sales and marketing systems, which is to say, for corporate revenue pipelines. Now it’s complete.

Instead of sliding your body into a machine, you feed CRM and other relevant data into our revenue intelligence system – called Telemetry RT3, press the button, and in seconds discover what’s going right and wrong inside your pipeline, what’s about to go wrong, and what you can do about it.

Rinse and repeat every day / week / month / quarter, and Telemetry continually tracks the performance and evolving risk profile of the entire marketing and sales process from end-to-end.

That’s a bit of an oversimplification, but it’s pretty close.

This short video (60 seconds) summarises the basic proposition.

Before you even ask, no – you cannot get this level of insight or foresight from Salesforce or any other CRM, or any other analytics system for that matter.
